

Systems

A system can be defined as ‘an ongoing and interconnected process made up of more than one step or activity that achieves a certain outcome’.

Here are five things you need to know about systems

1. Systems exist unavoidably

It's common for the following systems to be considered somewhat critical to the creation of a healthy church.

- Systems of administration
- Systems for the provision of children's ministry
- Systems for creating connections with your target audience
- Systems for, raising and spending financial resources
- Systems for decision making and leadership
- Systems for recruiting, training, empowering and delegating to volunteers

2. Systems affect people

3. Systems deliver results

4. Systems create behaviours

5. Systems go wrong
